DREAM IT.

“When I began with TH in 1986, I did not understand the importance of the agency and I did not truly understand mental illness.

Since that time, I’ve gained an appreciation and understanding for the amazing people who are a part of our programs. My commitment to the belief that recovery is possible is stronger than ever and I am committed to doing my best to ensure that each client of TH has the opportunity to receive the best support and skills development training possible. To me, recovery is more than the absence of symptoms, it is a holistic state of joy and wellness. We cannot impose recovery on anyone, however we can provide outstanding tools, a safe environment, and support and encouragement to each person who is a client of Transition House, Inc.”

TRANSITION HOUSE IMPACT

Providing Hope & Opportunities

When I started with Transition House in 1986, I never could have imagined the amazing people that I’ve had the pleasure of working with over the years. People come to Transition House often at their lowest point in life, feeling alone, hopeless, unworthy, and defeated. Working with our staff, I’ve watched people transform their lives. So many have discovered life joys they couldn’t have imagined. With a new sense of worthiness and support, I have seen people making the choice to live their best life as contributing members of our community.

Transition House cannot impose change on anyone, but for those looking for opportunities to change, there is hope. For some, they stabilize in their healing and live their best life beyond recovery. Every day, I’m grateful for the People of Transition House who remind us that there is hope for a better life.
